

Tay Geck from the Town of Cambridge is seen here with the CEO Kelton Hincks receiving an award from the Town for being an employee for 30 years.

Tay was originally employed as a qualified plumber by the Town. Over the years they no longer required this level of work and he has in more recent years been working in the reticulation field.

He originally started working with the City of Perth, but when the city was divided many years ago, he was retained by the Town of Cambridge as this was the area he mainly worked in. He has been a member of the union for many years.
